

Breakthrough

You have been running so far for so long and you don't know how to breathe anymore. Come sit with Me and learn what I want you to learn, this may be a struggle at first as you start to use spiritual muscles you did not know existed.

Allow Me to teach you the unforced rhythms of grace, and every part of your being will bow to My will, every crooked place will be made straight as I correct the twisted, distorted ways life has taught you to walk and show you how to not only walk, but run, jump, and fly... I long to pour out My heart over you, to crush every high thing that exalted itself above Me and My ways.

Come to Me where at My feet I will strengthen and adorn you to be excellent for Me. In My presence you will find cool grass to walk on and rivers of life to drink from. I am asking you to come as you are and be filled. As you fill up, you will become My fountain that spills over into every situation you come in contact with, you will issue in My season of renewal and refreshing.

My desire is to strengthen you in your inner man throughout impossible times and even in the midst of darkness and confusion you will have the light and lead. Stop hurting yourself in trying to make pieces of a puzzle fit, I know where and how every piece fits in, but only I can make a way where there seems to be no way. So trust Me tired one, trust Me to equip you with effective weapons for the road ahead.

Let go of old remedies and failed attempts, don't let the symptoms of change disable and discourage you, My word remains and I will restore your peace and zeal, the more you hide in Me and learn to flow with My yoke, you will understand that I am a Rewarder of those who diligently seek Me. You will begin to see that there is fruit in this season and I only need your faith and a heart for me to multiply and mature your every attempt. Hold on to the dream that I placed in your heart and press through with My word as your torch. It is through dying that you will live, through persecution you will prevail, and in sincerely seeking, you will find.

I have ignited a spark within you that sets off a series of events, catapulting you to lay hold of My promise. I have said it and I will say it again with great excitement and flaming love for you – I know the plans I have for you and they are good, they will far exceed anything you can imagine. So arm yourself with the knowledge of Me and My love for you, save your strength and be like a child once again as you wait patiently for Me to break through for you.

Laurinda Kruger

20/5/2010

info@pojc.org

www.pojc.org