

My Heart

My Heart is your anchor in these confusing times, a compass when you can't see past the fog. My voice will call you to the Truth and you will not be undone by circumstances and situations that overwhelm you, but you will walk on troubled waters because I am mighty to save. Allow My Heart to cover you and soak you and remove the lie from your being that causes panic, fear and hopelessness. Christ in you IS the hope of glory. You have favour and you have grace in Me. Walk in it by Faith and do not be bound by the lies that the enemy tortures you with, because he is torturing you to burden you with a false reality, stealing your joy and your strength, attempting to steer you off course. I will take you from glory to glory, just allow My Heart to guide you.

Laurinda Kruger

15 October 2009

www.pojc.org

info@pojc.org